Art Unit: 1711

Applicant's arguments filed September 15, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Rejection over Zhou et al. is withdrawn in light of the presented certified translation of the priority document.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-13 and 39-61 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 48-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Applicants' claims are confusing as to intent because it can not be determined what components, elements, or limitations the language "the isocyanate characteristic of the reaction mixture" or "the product of the isocyanate functionality and functionality of the polyol component" are intended to be defining.

Additionally, applicants' claims (see claim 49) are confusing as to intent because it can not be determined what components, elements, or limitations the language "an isocyanate characteristic of the reaction mixture" or "a product of the isocyanate functionality and functionality of the polyol component" are intended to be defining.

Art Unit: 1711

Particularly, it can not be determined what characteristics and/or qualities are being included and/or excluded by the use of the terminology "an" and "a".

It can not be determined what qualities these limitations are defining, and the specification provides no further definition of their meaning. Explanation or correction on the record is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless —

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-13 and 39-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kenndoff et al.(5,844,013).

Kenndoff et al. disclose preparations of articles comprising adhered articles of polyurethanes and polyurethane foams which read on the articles of applicants' claims (see the entire document). The claims do not provide structural features to distinguish their molded articles, the urethane components are not defined so as to distinguish over those of the reference, and the adhesive properties between the layers defined by the reference are implicit and inherent to the materials utilized.

Claims 1-13 and 39-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mueller et al.(5,543,225).

Mueller et al. disclose preparations of articles comprising adhered articles of polyurethanes and polyurethane foams which read on the articles of applicants' claims (see the entire document). The claims do not provide structural features to distinguish their molded articles, the urethane components are not defined so as to distinguish over those of the reference, and the adhesive properties between the layers defined by the reference are implicit and inherent to the materials utilized. A polyurethane need only be crosslinked to meet the definition of "gel" in the patentable sense without its definition being particularly defined by the supporting disclosure, and, hence, this component is not seen to differ from the materials disclosed by the cited reference.

Claims 1-13 and 39-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Gardner, Jr.(6,013,210)

Gardner, Jr. discloses preparations of articles comprising adhered articles of polyurethanes and polyurethane foams which read on the articles of applicants' claims (see the entire document). The claims do not provide structural features to distinguish their molded articles, the urethane components are not defined so as to distinguish over those of the reference, and the adhesive properties between the layers defined by

A polyurethane need only be crosslinked to meet the definition of "gel" in the patentable sense without its definition being particularly defined by the supporting disclosure, and, hence, this component is not seen to differ from the materials disclosed by the cited reference.

Claims 1-13 and 39-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Madan et al.(6,294,248).

Madan et al. disclose preparations of articles comprising adhered articles of polyurethanes and polyurethane foams which read on the articles of applicants' claims (see the entire document). The claims do not provide structural features to distinguish their molded articles, the urethane components are not defined so as to distinguish over those of the reference, and the adhesive properties between the layers defined by the reference are implicit and inherent to the materials utilized. Claims 1-13 and 39-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Burgdorfer et al.(4,456,642).

Burgdorfer et al. disclose preparations of articles comprising adhered articles of polyurethanes and polyurethane foams which read on the articles of applicants' claims (see the entire document). The claims do not provide structural features to distinguish

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Greene discloses laminated layers of polyurethanes.
